

OXFORD AND THE OLD BODLEIAN LIBRARY

18 MARCH 2015

Report by Alan Russett

The visit to Oxford included a reserved tour of the Old Bodleian Library with its 15th century Old Divinity School, 17th century Convocation House, Chancellor's Court and Duke Humfrey's Library - the heart of the original University. The University being on vacation, Christ Church, incorporating Oxford Cathedral, and other colleges were among popular destinations during the rest of the day, while the splendidly refurbished Ashmolean

Museum attracted many. Fine weather ensured an enjoyable day for the 34 members and guests participating.
